Chinese Taxation With

Take advantage of your expatriate status and learn how to minimize your annual taxation payments! LehmanBrown is a China-focused accounting, taxation and business advisory firm. They combine international expertise with practical China knowledge and experience.

Russell Brown, of LehmanBrown, will be looking at taxation from the perspective of inside China. How does the Chinese Tax System really work - what is and isn't taxed? He will explain how the 5-year rule works and how to creatively utilise it for your tax advantage. Most importantly, he will explain the methods you can use to reduce the taxes you pay within China.

We will also have a qualified International Trust and Taxation speaker, specializing in wealth and asset protection. He will examine taxes from an external to China perspective. What are the key steps most expatriates can take to reduce their overall tax load? One of the misconceptions many expatriates have is that if they don't pay income tax while they are in China, no further tax planning issues need to be addressed. He will cover trusts – the types of available and their uses. He will also explain the importance of wills and inheritance tax. For expatriates, they need to understand how multi-jurisdictions can be exploited to their greatest advantage. Finally, he will discuss the importance of planning long in advance before returning home.
